

House-Passed Social Security Tax Cut Benefits Few Elderly Taxpayers

The Social Security tax cut passed by the House on July 27 in HR 4865 would provide tax relief to only a minority of Social Security recipients, according to a July 28 CTJ analysis. An analysis released by the group shows that only 23 percent of Social Security recipients would receive any benefit from the House-passed plan. Over 28 percent of the benefits would go to the wealthiest five percent of taxpayers. The average tax cut for Social Security recipients in the top 10 percent of the income distribution would be $1,873, compared to a $1 average tax cut for those in the bottom 60 percent.

“The fact that three-quarters of all Social Security recipients won’t see a dime from this tax cut shows the real priorities of the GOP architects of this plan,” said CTJ Tax Policy Director Michael Ettlinger.
